Volunteers get just recognition

Last week, the Noblesville Chamber of Commerce honored the deserving winners of the Noblesville Volunteer Awards. Among them: Bill Taylor, all-around volunteer for being an ardent supporter of The Boys and Girls Club, among others; Anita Beck, faith-based volunteer for her efforts at Noblesville First United Methodist Church; Greg Ayers, mayor's volunteer for his activities with Sunrisers Kiwanis and the Boy Scouts; Cindy Haas, outstanding environmentalist for work with the Hamilton County Master Gardener Association and Keep Noblesville Beautiful; BlueSky Technology Partners for corporate volunteerism with seven organizations; Noblesville High School juniors Ty Chilton, Griffin Janosky, Dane Jeon, David Pimley, Kai Strubel, and Cameron Thompson for exemplary service learning of more than 1,360 hours; and Chuck Layton for lifetime achievement. A former Korean War POW, he is a board member for Meals on Wheels. He has volunteered for many organizations through the years. Folks like these really help to keep our city moving and in a fine light. Congratulations to the winners and to all volunteers, for that matter.
